DANGERS INSIDE THE OFFICE NETWORK

We have found number of customers whose secure office networks were breached. This was not by any sophisticated hacker, but innocently done when an employee purchased an inexpensive wireless access point and installed in on the office network. By default these units do not have much, if any security installed and can be easily breached.

Do you have anything like this on you network?

Not sure, have our professional staff come out and do a security sweep of your network.
